GUÍA DE USO

INTRODUCCIÓN

Esta base de datos ofrece acceso al texto completo de una gran cantidad de revistas de derecho, obras clásicas, publicaciones legales de las Naciones Unidas y constituciones del mundo.

Esta especializada en derecho anglosajón desde el siglo XVIII al XXI a texto completo con múltiples contenidos escaneados: revistas, monografías, tratados, reports, códigos.

También incluye documentación del European Center for Minority Issues y la colección English Reports (1220-1867).

Contiene revistas jurídicas, textos legislativos, jurisprudencia y libros electrónicos. En lo que respecta a las revistas, Heinonline incluye de forma electrónica todos sus números desde los orígenes hasta generalmente el año anterior al año en curso.

INTRODUCCIÓN

Los documentos se visualizan en formato PDF, es decir, la imagen digitalizada de la edición impresa de las diferentes obras, con los anexos, ilustraciones etc.

La visualización de las obras en papel, y, por tanto, es muy útil cuando se busca un artículo o documento concreto del cual se pretende consultar el contenido de un número de revista concreta, una monografía etc.

En la parte izquierda de la pantalla de inicio aparece un listado de las colecciones suscritas. Al lado de cada una hay un símbolo de interrogación que nos da información de su contenido. Algunas colecciones son muy amplias y tienen asociado un símbolo +, que permite subdividirla en partes y seleccionar solo una.

OPCIONES DE BÚSQUEDA

Hay cuatro opciones de búsqueda:

- * Búsqueda rápida
- * Búsqueda por campos
- * Búsqueda avanzada
- * Caja de búsqueda única

Búsqueda rápida. Seleccionar en la página de inicio una de las colecciones (o parte de ella) a las que estamos suscritos y buscar dentro de ella usando operadores booleanos.

Ejemplo: Seleccionamos la colección Law Journal Library en la pantalla de inicio

Búsqueda por campos

- La pantalla que aparece nos permite seleccionar los campos del documento en los que queremos hacer la búsqueda, los operadores booleanos que queremos utilizar e introducir los términos de búsqueda. Si desconocemos el significado de algún campo o los campos disponibles podemos pinchar en Search Tips y aparecerá un menú con los campos disponibles, su significado y un ejemplo.
- Permite combinar hasta tres campos de búsqueda que podemos seleccionar de entre los seis disponibles: texto, título del artículo, autor, estado, país y fecha. La selección de estos tres campos la haremos abriendo los desplegados.
- La búsqueda se puede afinar seleccionando una materia de entre las que ofrece el sistema, así como seleccionando el título de una determinada publicación bien por su acrónimo o por el título completo, acotando además, si nos interesa, por fechas.

Búsqueda por campos

- Otra opción es seleccionar el tipo de documento activando o desactivando las distintas opciones que ofrece la interface.
- También permite activar o desactivar dos opciones más: una incluirá en la búsqueda artículos no incluidos en HeinOnline, la otra incluirá también resultados procedentes de otra colecciones de HeinOnline distintas a la seleccionada.

Ejemplo: Nos interesan artículos sobre abuso infantil en Estados Unidos desde el punto de vista criminal escritos entre 1990 y 2013, además nos suena que hay uno que en el título llevaba la palabra infancia. En el campo text escribimos chidl abuse; en el campo Article title escribimos childhood; seleccionamos el campo country e introducimos United States; en subject seleccionamos Criminal Justice; en date acotamos entre 1990 y 2013; desactivamos todos los tipos de documentos excepto artículos, y dejamos activadas las opciones que buscan artículos no incluidos en esta base de datos o artículos que estén en colecciones distintas a la seleccionada .

SINTAXIS DE BÚSQUEDA Y USO DE OPERADORES BOOLEANOS

A continuación se explicará la sintaxis de búsqueda y el uso de operadores booleanos que permitirán sacar el máximo rendimiento de la base de datos.

Una búsqueda está formada por términos y por operadores.

- Términos

Términos

- Hay dos tipos de términos: los formados por una sola palabra o las frases.

Ejemplo: xenophobia / “human rights”.

- Si se usan frases, deben ir entrecomilladas, ya que si no el sistema interpreta que los distintos términos de la frase están unidos con el operador AND.

Ejemplo: La búsqueda por la frase “right to privacy” recuperará documentos que contengan esta expresión en su conjunto, mientras que en la búsqueda por right to privacy (sin comillas), el sistema interpretará right AND to AND privacy, y recuperará documentos que contengan los tres términos pero no necesariamente juntos.

- El uso de mayúsculas o minúsculas en los términos es indiferente.

Operadores booleanos

- Los distintos términos se pueden combinar mediante operadores.
- Los operadores permiten buscar en varios campos en una consulta única.
- Cuando se usan operadores booleanos en la búsqueda rápida o en la avanzada estos deben ir escritos con mayúsculas.

Operadores booleanos

Operador AND. Usando este operador conseguimos recuperar ítems que contengan todos los criterios de búsqueda unidos por el mismo.

Ejemplo: title: childhood AND text: “social exclusión”

Operador OR. Cuando usamos este operador recuperaremos documentos que contenga al menos uno de los criterios de búsqueda incluidos. Aquellos documentos que reúnan más de un criterio de búsqueda se considerará que tienen mayor relevancia e irán los primeros en la lista de resultados ( que por defecto sale ordenada por relevancia) .

Ejemplo: title:( childhood OR youth) AND “social exclusión”

Operador NOT. El sistema excluirá los documentos que contengan el término que aparece a continuación del operador NOT.

Ejemplo: title: (conservation NOT “natural resources”)

Indicación de los campos en búsquedas rápidas y avanzadas

- En búsquedas rápidas y avanzadas podemos indicar en que campo queremos que busque un determinado término o frase. Lo haremos indicando el nombre del campo seguido de dos puntos y el término de búsqueda.

Ejemplo: title: “social exclusión”

Agrupación de términos usando paréntesis

- Si queremos asociar varios términos mediante booleanos dentro de un mismo campo utilizaremos los paréntesis.

Ejemplo: title:( childhood OR youth) AND “social exclusión”

- También podemos usar los paréntesis para agrupar términos que aparezcan en diferentes campos y combinarlo con un tercer término.

Ejemplo:(text: “social exclusion” NOT title: xenophobia) AND title: *childhood

Uso de rangos en las consultas

- El uso de rangos permite recuperar documentos cuyos valores en un determinado campo o campos estén entre el inferior y el superior del rango especificado.
- En unos casos los límites del rango estarán incluidos o no en la búsqueda según lo indiquemos con la palabra to (incluye los límites) o con la palabra and (excluye los límites).

Ejemplos: date: [1938 TO 1944] .En este caso recuperará aquellos documentos cuyo campo de fecha esté ente 1938 y 1944 inclusive.

Title: [Aida AND Carmen]. Así recuperará los documentos cuyo título esté entre Aida y Carmen, pero sin incluir Aida y Carmen.

Indicación de proximidad entre términos

- Esta opción permite encontrar términos con una proximidad entre si que nosotros determinemos. El símbolo utilizado para ello es ~.

Ejemplo: text:"consumer product safety standars"* ~ 25. En este caso se recuperaran documentos que contengan todos esos términos en un rango máximo de 25 palabras.

Truncamientos

- Los truncamientos permiten sustituir uno o varios caracteres de una palabra por un símbolo. Sirve para salvar variedades ortográficas o para recuperar documentos que contengan términos con una raíz común. El símbolo utilizado para sustituir un carácter es ?.

Ejemplo: author: ?iménez. En este caso recuperará documentos cuyo autor sea Jiménez, Ximénez o Giménez.

- El símbolo que sustituye varios caracteres es *.

Ejemplo: text: child*. En este caso el sistema recuperará documentos que contengan en el texto términos como children o childhood.

- Las opciones de indicación de proximidad y el truncamiento no pueden usarse simultáneamente en una búsqueda.

Búsqueda aproximada

- Este tipo de búsqueda está basada en la lógica difusa. Permite la búsqueda por términos que se aproximan desde el punto de vista gráfico a uno dado. Se utiliza para señalarlo el símbolo  $\sim$ .

Ejemplo : title: roam. En este caso recuperará documentos que contengan el título palabras como foam o roams.

- Opcionalmente se puede modificar el parámetro de similitud entre el término sugerido y los potencialmente pueda recuperar. Este parámetro va de 0 a 1, cuanto más lo aproximemos a 1 mayor será la similitud.

Ejemplo: title: roam $\sim$ 0.8.

- Si no se especifica el parámetro por defecto es 0.5.

Destacar términos

- Cuando en una búsqueda se utilizan varios términos pero queremos concederle a uno de ellos mayor importancia utilizamos el símbolo ^ y un factor de amplificación (un número) detrás del término o frase.
- Cuanto más alto sea el factor de amplificación, más relevante será el término o frase.

Ejemplo: text: *“human rights”AND xenophobia<sup>3</sup>. En este caso los documentos en los que el término xenofobia aparezca con mayor frecuencia aparecerán los primeros en la lista de resultados ordenada por relevancia.

- Si no especificamos el parámetro por defecto es 1.

RECOMENDACIONES PARA BUSCAR DOCUMENTOS DE UN TEMA DETERMINADO

Si estás empezando una búsqueda de un tema concreto te recomendamos:

- Utilizar la Caja de búsqueda única, ya que buscará en todas las colecciones de la base de datos que tengas suscritas.
- Realizar una búsqueda por aproximación, buscando términos que aparezcan en el texto de un documento o en el título y a partir de los resultados obtenidos ir afinando la búsqueda.

Ejemplo: Queremos buscar documentos sobre la regulación internacional de seguros, así que partimos de la siguiente estrategia en la Caja de búsqueda única : text: “international insurance regulation” ~ 25 OR title: “international insurance regulation” ~ 25. Posteriormente podemos acotar la búsqueda por fechas, tipo de documento, país, etc.

RECOMENDACIONES PARA BUSCAR DOCUMENTOS DE UN TEMA DETERMINADO

- Utilizar sólo palabras relevantes en las estrategias de búsqueda, eliminando palabras vacías: artículos, preposiciones, conjunciones...
- Modificar el rango de proximidad entre varios términos de la búsqueda aumentando o disminuyendo el número después del símbolo ~ dependiendo de los resultados obtenidos en un primer intento: disminuye el rango si has obtenido demasiados resultados o auméntalo si has obtenidos escasos resultados.
- Incluir un elevado número de términos en el campo de título puede limitar en exceso la búsqueda, ya que dejará fuera documentos que no contengan todos esos términos en el título.
- Recuerda que siempre puedes utilizar la opción de buscar dentro de los resultados obtenidos con “search within these results” para afinar la búsqueda.

BÚSQUEDA DE UN ARTÍCULO O DOCUMENTO

Existen tres opciones para buscar un artículo o documento concreto:

- Por su cita
- Por sus datos concretos
- Búsqueda en el catálogo

Por su cita

- La mayoría de las colecciones de Hein On line tienen una opción de búsqueda por citas: Citation Navigator, que permite recuperar rápida y fácilmente un artículo o documento por su cita.
